IEEE Tunisian Students and Young Professionals Congress (TSYP) 7th edition

Seven consecutive generations fueled with determination, dedication and motivation, strived every year towards fulfillment, sought perfection and reached success, to finally crown their efforts with hosting the 7th edition of the IEEE Tunisian Students and Young Professionals Congress (TSYP).

They entrusted this achievement to a 14-person team, supported every IEEE ENIT Student Branch member, to complete this mission as best as it could be.

That’s why this year’s edition of TSYP will be a one of a kind:

First, the variety of sponsors endorsing this congress, that we would sincerely thank for their trust and support, from Diar Lemdina Hotel, Poulina Group, Wynsys, MASU, Caprari, Eritem to Tunisian Post Office.

We were also honored by the presence of many special guests, most importantly the Young Professionals Region 8 (YP R8) team, as one of our main aims for this edition is to empower the YPs participation and involvement in this congress, besides national and international speakers coming from the USA, UK, Greece, Benelux, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Tunisia, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Nigeria.

This edition’s program was both rich and entertaining, as it offered participants various workshops, conferences, speed talks, challenges and networking sessions, which mainly encourages learning, innovation, creation and competitiveness within fair play.

To conclude, this congress was a great chance to expand one’s professional network, find new opportunities and seek new horizons.

This edition was a great challenge for the organizing committee, as it witnessed the involvement of various parties: IEEE Tunisia Section, YPs, Technical Chapters, Affinity Groups, Sponsors and especially the IEEE Tunisia SAC, which made their first participation as a newly born entity within the IEEE Tunisia Section.

Coordinating and working along with all these parties required a lot of patience, discipline and understanding to achieve satisfying results for everyone and successfully orchestrate a high-quality congress for the one thousand attendees.

Working in silence, patience and harmony, tackling difficulties and advancing steadily towards the goal was all that mattered to the IEEE ENIT SB TSYP Organizing Committee.

And here I quote Stephen Covey:

“…[because] the secret of life [is] to be completely engaged with what you are doing in the here and now. Instead of calling it work, realize it is play”
TSYP from a personal point of view

“First things first, I salute every single member of the IEEE ENIT SB for the huge efforts shown back in the congress and before the congress.

Second, I want express my respect and gratitude for the OC members, this experience had us living more than a family, and that’s why I am grateful, for the strong bonds we have built over the time without noticing, even though we were focused mostly on work. I have seen a lot of sacrifices, depression, tears, arguments, complaints, despair and dissatisfaction, but most importantly, the way you stood up every time and overcame all of that, by all means, and you finally succeeded.

Special thanks to our SB officers, who did not only support us all the way through and boosted our confidence, but also were the best guidance to new members, gave them trust to go through new yet thrilling experiences, to finally earn rewards and delivers the best image of our SB.

I have been reading all of the feedbacks these past two days, especially the ones from our dear members, you said it all, you triumphed and won, and I couldn’t be more proud and satisfied, people may be thanking us for what they have seen, but I believe they will praise us even more for what they have not. So, keep your heads up proudly, you deserve what you have earned and most importantly you belong to IEEE ENIT SB.

Finally, I believe that everyone realized the true meaning of “TSYP will change your visions, it will be the turning point in your careers”, and from now on, you won’t be only making memories, you will also be making history.

You are wonderful, stay wonderful and show the world what IEEE ENIT SB members are made of.”

Ahmed BOUGATF

TSYP 7th edition Challenges Manager

IEEE Tunisia SAC Communication Manager

IEEE ENIT Student Branch past Community & Communication Manager